An Informed Approach to Hurricane Donations and Volunteer Service Maximizes the Value of Your Efforts

STATE EMERGENCY OPERATIONS CENTER, TALLAHASSEE – As residents in Florida’s Panhandle and in the Florida Keys begin recovering and rebuilding from Hurricane Dennis, we encourage everyone to contribute wisely toward recovery efforts. Consider the following before you donate goods, money or your time.

Financial Contributions are Preferred:
Cash donations help organizations avoid the labor and expense of sorting, packing, transporting and distributing donated goods, and voluntary relief agencies can use cash to meet hurricane victims’ specific needs more quickly.

Donate through an Experienced Disaster Relief Organization:
Relief agencies prefer the versatility of cash donations; however, some have the infrastructure in place to store and distribute donated goods. To prevent waste, donations of goods should be made only to agencies that have requested specific items.

Confirm the Need Before Collecting:
Donors should be wary of anyone who claims “everything is needed.” Many groups have been disappointed their efforts and the goods they collected were not appreciated. A community hit by disaster does not have the time, manpower or money to dispose of unneeded donations. Get precise information and confirm the need before collecting any donated goods.

Volunteer Wisely to Help Others:
In a community struggling to respond to and recover from a disaster, an influx of unexpected or unneeded volunteers and donations can make the process even more difficult. Before traveling to the disaster area to help, learn where and when your skills will be needed. Discuss with volunteer organizers how your needs for food, water and shelter will be met while you are volunteering.

The Governor’s Commission on Volunteerism & Community Service was established in 1994 by the Florida Legislature to administer grants under the National and Community Service Trust Act of 1993. The Commission grants funds to Florida AmeriCorps and National Service programs; encourages volunteerism for everyone from youths to seniors to people with disabilities; promotes volunteerism in emergency management and preparedness; and helps to strengthen and expand Volunteer Centers in Florida.
